

Monthly Memorandum

Throughout this month, there have been times of uncertainty and instances of definite victory while we watched and waited for God to work. We were blessed to see Northeast Baptist Church officially constituted and the new pastor of the church-plant begin leading the new flock. Meanwhile, we patiently trusted God to provide a place to stay as we moved from location to location. Initial plans for someone to watch our children fell through, but God had already been at work. Unexpectedly, multiple doors opened up at the same time allowing Katrina's sister to fly in. Two days later, baby Jack was born. The hospitality of both supporting and non-supporting churches that we have spent time with has been incredible. We truly appreciate the kindness and love of each pastor and members we have been able to meet.

Recently, I had a unique experience out in public. At Walmart, a young man who I suspected to be either spiritually oppressed and/or addicted to drugs approached me. I engaged in trying to help him, but after several minutes I found it utterly futile. Not half an hour later, I was approached by another young man who handed me a blank piece of paper and said "Happy Holidays." After a few questions, I found out that he has been printing Gospel tracts on his own home printer and visiting Walmart, giving them out to people. Inside that blank, folded paper were Bible verses outlining a solid presentation of salvation. He agreed to come to church that following Sunday. Pray for Chris. He was sick that morning, but we still hope to see him down the road. Even in a pandemic, we can grow and serve the Lord.

Skean &
Family*

Despite the restrictions, the church we have been staying at for most of April found a way to post videos on both Facebook and Youtube, allowing us to sing and share from the Scriptures for the church members in Lake Milton, OH.

Jack A. Skean was born on the morning of April 23rd. We were discharged from the hospital on Saturday, April 25th with both mommy and newborn baby doing well. Thank you so much for praying!

All six of us at a drive-in church service and listening to the singing and preaching done over a low-power FM transmitter. It's important for kids and adults to be in church - no matter how young or how old!
