Journaling June

Can't afford the dentist office? Just pull the teeth out yourself. No pain medication. Yes, we were just as surprised as you are, but that is the reality that some face. Larisa (pictured) is a faithful member of the local church here.

We are gearing up for a month and a half of intense focus on evangelism! Our family purchased 15,000 tracts to use in the marathon throughout the rest of June and July. We hope to see this tiny church reach its city for Christ.

Waking up one Sunday morning, we heard that Alla had passed into eternity. She was buried that same afternoon. Pray that her unsaved family members repent and believe on Christ. It was sad to see her go, but we know that instead of walking on the dangerous roads in Ukraine to church each Sunday, she has streets of gold upon which to painlessly walk on her way to the throne of God.

Update from Ukraine

This month, we started an evangelism campaign here in Kharkov. We are praying and working to see an increase of soul-consciousness amongst the church people.

Katrina and I celebrated our seventh anniversary on the twenty first. She and I planned to distribute Gospel tracts together in the city center and were surprised that on that weekend there were more people than usual because of Music Day. Praise the Lord that the people were brought out onto the street for us! Katrina and I had a good conversation with a man named Konstantin. I was able to witness in Russian and Katrina with her better knowledge of the Russian language helped where needed. Our family is very much enjoying the sunny weather and ample opportunities to give out Gospel literature. This week, one of the men at the church got excited to go give tracts out to the people around the area and asked if anyone would go with him. I gladly volunteered and that evening we were able to witness to two young men named Samuel and Max. Samuel is a Pentecostal and Max is an agnostic. Both listened to the Scriptures and the

Thank you for your prayers concerning the International Student Conference. We posted more pictures on social media of the event allowing me the opportunity to share a good deal of the Gospel account starting in Genesis with students from Cameroon, India, Turkey, Iran, and other countries. I am thankful for the support from one of my teachers who encouraged me to publish the article in the book received by each student and teacher.

Exams are over and grades have been received! The classes I focused on the most were Linguistics, Russian, and English Grammar (British). The latter had me translating from Russian into English. These grades were 92, 93, and 94 respectively. What is most exciting is that I and others have noticed a drastic improvement since last year in my ability to speak the language!

explanation of Biblical truth. It was an encouraging opportunity. They seemed like they might visit on Sunday. I am hoping they do and the African student that I met named Vaughn does too.

Today on evangelism, I met two communists. One was elderly and named Vladimir. He told me how wonderfully he remembered the Soviet Union being and contrasted it to what he considers "poverty" these days. This experience was a chance to focus on what was essential. What God gave me to say was, "We may live well or live poorly, but most importantly - how will we live in eternity?" The older gentleman, scoffed a little saying he doesn't believe in anything, but to my surprise, asked for one of the Gospel tracts I had in my hand. After biting my tongue and choosing not to engage in an argument about their political views, I told them it was a pleasure to meet them. They wished me well - despite their distaste for the United States - and I left, hoping that God will speak to their hearts through the Gospel tracts that were given.

Some exciting news this month was finding out that we had recently been picked up for support by a church in New York. One of the small churches that had been supporting us dropped all their missionaries. We happily wish them and the new pastor the best as they rebuild and grow. They are wonderful people and we pray that God blesses their efforts. At the same time, God moved upon the hearts of people in New York to stand in the gap financially and offer up more prayer support. It is always exciting to see God work!

Again, I ask you for your prayers concerning an upcoming trip that I will give more details about later. I am praying for safety, wisdom, and for the Lord's leading. One of the matters concerning the trip has already been an answered prayer - I easily received the entry visa. Now comes the matter of stepping out.

Thank you for your prayers and support,
